Route 905

1. Regatta Point Exhibition

The Regatta Point Planning Exhibition, presented by the National Capital Development Commission, depicts Canberra's development by means of maps, models, audio-visual displays and photographs. An ideal start to your Canberra sightseeing.

2. Embassies

Over 60 countries have diplomatic representation in Canberra, bringing an extraordinary variety of national architectural styles. Special exhibitions are open to the public at the Papua New Guinea and Indonesian delegations. The bus waits at both these missions for ten minutes.

3. Red Hill Lookout

This affords excellent views of South Canberra and Woden Valley. For your convenience, the bus waits at the lookout for 20 minutes. There is a restaurant and kiosk at the summit.

4. Manuka Shopping Centre

One of Canberra's oldest shopping centres, it has many specialty shops. If you alight here, you can return to the City on a route 350 or 351 bus in Franklin Street (opposite the Cinema) every 15 minutes.

5. New Parliament House

The present Parliament House, opened in 1927, was always intended to be temporary and is no longer adequate. The new building is due to open for Australia's Bicentenary in 1988. You can get off the bus here and inspect the exhibition or view the new building from the observation platform. Refreshments are available. At your own leisure, walk a few hundred metres north, towards the City, to Brisbane Avenue where you can get a route 234 bus back to the City (passing this stop at 08 and 38 minutes past each hour).

6. Parliament House

You can alight here and visit the present Parliament House, or walk down towards the Lakeshore to the High Court and National Gallery. Any bus marked 'City Interchange' will return you to the City.
